Not illustrated. 1911 Excerpt: . . . of Syria, Padan-Aram, consists of this great level plain. Here Laban lived and hither Jacob came and tended Laban's flocks. 5. During Old Testament times, Damascus was the capital city of Syria. Damascus is one of the oldest cities in the world. It is at the foot of snowy Mt. Hermon, where the sparkling mountain river Abana suddenly bursts through the open country, and scatters into small streams, creating a paradise of grassy banks and gardens. Damascus is said to have been founded by the son of Aram. It is first mentioned in Scripture in connection with Abraham's steward, who was a native of the place (Gen. 15: 2.) It was the capital of the kings of Syria, who were almost continually engaged in wars with the kings of Israel and Judah. King David subdued Damascus, but it regained its independence and fought against Israel under its kings Benhadad and Hazael. Elisha the prophet visited Benhadad, and wept because of the evil that would be wrought upon Israel by Hazael. And you remember how Naaman, captain of the army of Syria, was cured of his leprosy by obeying the command of Elisha. 6. Damascus has always been a trade centre, and caravans from Egypt passed to Palmyra and the river Euphrates. The Apostle Paul was converted outside of its walls. In it was the street called Straight, and the house of Ananias, and here St. Paul was let down over the walls in a basket....
