LOOKING UP AT THE BOTTOM LINE: THE STRUGGLE FOR THE LIVING WAGE

Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 182 pages. Looking Up At The Bottom Line by Richard R. Troxell is an intense personal, political, and educational guide through the last 30 years of homelessness in America, a journey which presents Troxell's workable solution to economic homelessness in America: the Universal Living Wage. Richard R. Troxell has been striving to end homelessness since he first witnessed it as a self-made mortgage foreclosure preventionist in Philadelphia in the 1980s. Today, Richard Troxell works with people with disabilities and homeless citizens of Austin, TX, as the founder and director of Legal Aid for the Homeless. He is also President and Founder of House the Homeless, Inc. (nonprofit-501c3), which he established in 1989. HtH is comprised of homeless and formerly homeless citizens struggling to protect their civil rights and find solutions that will end homelessness in their lifetime. He is the creator of the economic solution to homelessness: The Universal Living Wage. Remarkable! An energizing, engaging book that can lead to the end of homelessness for over 1,000,000 minimum wage workers. This book takes off where all the other minimum wage, living wage books end. Michael Stoops National Civil Rights Organizer for the National Coalition for the Homeless. . . the only book on the subject that combines in such depth both personal stories of low wage workers and their families, on the one hand, and analytic arguments about the costs and benefits of living wages, on the other. The idea of indexing wages to housing costs just may be the right way to think about this. Robert Pollin Author of The Living Wage: Building a Fair Economy Troxell's accounts of the homeless point to a profound break down in our culture - a society that grows more rootless and disconnected with each passing year. After...
